This Week's Parashah

The Book of Exodus begins by recounting that the descendants of Jacob flourished and multiplied in Egypt, "and the land was filled with them." Then a new Pharaoh rises to power in Egypt, one who did not remember Joseph. Pharaoh perceives the Israelites as a threat. The Egyptians enslave the Israelites, making life bitter for them. Pharaoh instructs midwives to kill all male children born to Israelite women. When the midwives, fearing God, do not obey, Pharaoh orders all newborn boys drowned in the Nile River. One woman bears a son and is able to hide him for three months. When the infant can no longer be hidden, he is set afloat on the Nile River in a wicker basket. Miriam, the boy's sister, is stationed to watch what will become of him. When Pharaoh's daughter finds the infant she adopts him. Miriam arranges for her mother to nurse the baby. When the boy is grown, he is brought to Pharaoh's daughter to live in the palace as her son. She names him Moses, meaning "drawn out" of the water. Moses witnesses an Egyptian taskmaster beating a Hebrew slave and Moses kills the Egyptian. Moses flees Egypt and goes to Midian. One day, God appears to Moses in a burning bush. God instructs Moses to lead the Israelites out of Egypt and into the land of Canaan. Moses, his wife Tzipporah, and his sons journey to Egypt. Moses and Aaron go to Pharaoh demanding, in the name of God, that the Israelites be permitted to leave Egypt to worship God in the wilderness, but Pharaoh refuses to agree to their plea.

Today's Haftarah

Ezekiel is speaking to the Jewish people exiled in Babylonia. The first half of this chapter is Ezekiel's famous vision of the Valley of Dry Bones, in which he speaks of a national resurrection. In our Haftarah, God instructs Ezekiel to take two sticks and to write upon each of them. On the first: "For Judah and the children of Israel his companions." On the second: "For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim and all the house of Israel associated with it." The prophet is to bring these two sticks together as a demonstration to the people that all twelve tribes of Israel will be reunited. God also promises that once the Jewish people are reestablished in the Land of Israel, He will make with them a covenant of peace. Both the Torah reading and the Haftarah have strong themes of reunification. In the Torah reading, Joseph is reunited with his family. In the Haftarah, God promises the reunification of the Northern and Southern Kingdoms.
